

Internships:

The firm is happy to accept law students for short term internships. Generally, 3rd year students (in a five year integrated law course) or final year students (in a three year course) would be a good fit. Also the applicant must be desirous of a career in law.

Recruitment:

The Firm prefers to recruit from those who have previously interned with them. In case of senior associates, our general approach would be to first offer a short term assignment. We believe the initial interactions these opportunities present are invaluable for both sides in taking the relationship forward.

We may also mention that we do not have frequent vacancies and therefore apologise in advance if an expression of interest is not acknowledged / responded to.
